INTERESTING PAPER ON FEDERAL PRISONS

Mrs. Lillian Eddy Describes Activities of Government Prisons—Report of Junior Red Cross Work.

An interesting meeting was held by the Philomathean club on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. H. Farnsworth, included in the program was a paper on "Federal Prisons," given by Mrs. Lillian Eddy. These are described as being located at Leavenworth, Kan., at Alcatraz Island, off the coast of San Francisco, and at Fort Jay on Governor's Island in the east. The latter has only about 300 prisoners, Alcatraz 400 and Leavenworth 1,000. A new policy of separation was adopted in 1912, where those convicted of purely military offenses are given every chance to redeem themselves in a half day of study, and the honor of work and drill, under the honor system so that most of the men are re-enlisted in the service again after their sentence expires. In Georgia, has a penitentiary and there is a prison on Alcatraz Island for marines.

There was read a magazine article on Junior Red Cross work by Mrs. A. Craig, which described what had been accomplished by that organization. She also read a letter from Lloyd Craig, which gave the schedule of the day's routine at a training camp. There was a discussion of the navy yards of the United States, in which all present took part. The reorganization of the navy under Meyer in 1909, so that a great deal of red tape was eliminated and the forces somewhat brought under one bureau, the general preparedness of the navy at the beginning of the present war, the wonderful increase in the work during the last year, and the general outlook for the future were also dwelt upon. The program closed by a published satire on the Kaiser, read by Mrs. Whiffen. The hostess served delicious refreshments at the close of the afternoon.

BAPTIST AND METHODIST BOWLERS MEET TOMORROW

The church league bowling committee met at the Y. M. C. A. last evening to make final arrangements for the bowling league. Ten churches are now in the league and each of these churches send one member daily. The tournament will begin tomorrow night with a rolling between the Baptists and the Methodists. This game was scheduled for Tuesday, but due to the order of the fuel administrator to close all places of amusement on Tuesday the game was postponed until tomorrow. The Y. M. C. A. alleges are not held, but because the other allies in the city are obliged to close, Mr. Buarmore decided to close the "Y" alleys, also.

LEADS WOMEN IN WAR RELIEF WORK

Mrs. Ben Johnson.

Whatever the fate or future status of the interstate commerce commission, the war relief association it fostered in Washington will go right on with its work. The association came from Mrs. Ben Johnson, wife of the Kentucky congressman. She and the wives of the commission members have ousted the membership to 400 in two months' time and in the association rooms furnished by the commission the hundreds of women work daily. The scope of the work is that of similar organizations—the making of hospital supplies and knitting for French and Belgian refugee children.

OFFICERS RETIRED FROM ARMY BY THE INSPECTION BOARD

Colonel John Joachim, Former Commander of the First Wisconsin,
Among Those Disqualified.

One of the last steps before the Thirty-second division of the National Guard Army was the rigid enforcement of the retirement order for all men and officers who were incapacitated for service across the water. Whether Company M of the 128th Infantry, "somewhere in France," is not definitely known, but members of the 127th Infantry have written to their home papers to change their address for mail to the Expeditionary Force, via New York.

According to dispatches, five Wisconsin National Guard officers, mustered into the federal service when the troops were mobilized last July, have retired for physical disqualifications. They are:

Colonel John P. Joachim, Madison.
Colonel Marshall Cousins, of Eau Claire.
Lieutenant Colonel Emmanuel Rosier, Superior.

Captain John M. West, Green Bay.
Captain A. Hadden, Ladysmith.
Announcement of their retirement was made today at Camp MacArthur, Waco, Texas, where they have been stationed since leaving Camp Douglas.

That they will appeal from the ruling barring them from active war service, is indicated by telegrams received here by Adjutant General Orlando Holway, Governor Phillips' chief of staff said today.

Re-instate Michigan Officers.
Camp MacArthur, Tex., Jan. 21.—Major Augustus F. Ganser, Bay City, and thirteen other German-born officers in the 32nd division, recently barred from overseas service, will be allowed to go across with their regiments. Said to this effect by a telegram from Senator William Alden Smith.

Age Is Considered.
Retirement from active service of Colonel John B. Boucher, Cheboygan, Mich., and five Wisconsin officers for physical disqualification, is also announced.

Age is considered the real reason in these cases, those being affected being past fifty.

CITIZENSHIP PAPERS OF 136 ARE INVALID

Important Decision of Supreme Court
Renders First Papers of 192
Invalid—Must Obtain New Papers.

First naturalization papers which were issued prior to September 27, 1906, are now invalid and new declarations must be made by these alien residents, according to a decision recently rendered by the United States supreme court in a test case. Unless action is taken at once by Congress, 132 naturalization papers of Rock county, citizens will be declared invalid, and it will be necessary for these people to again take out their first papers. The records of Jesse Barle, clerk of the circuit court, show that of this number, 136 have already taken out their second papers, while the remainder have applied for them.

On September 27, 1906, a naturalization law was passed prescribing a seven-year limitation on first papers. That is, if any person declared his intention prior to the passing of the law and did not take out his second papers until after Sept. 27, 1913, both of his naturalization papers are now rendered invalid by the supreme court decision.

A copy of the communication to this effect that Mr. Barle received this morning from Richard K. Ball, commissioner of naturalization, follows:

The Supreme Court of the United States has, in a decision on the 17th inst. in the case of the United States vs. Carlson, declared that the naturalization law made prior to September 27, 1906, became invalid for purposes on September 27, 1913, by operation of the seven-year limitation contained in the naturalization act, June 23, 1906.

"You should, therefore, receive no petitions based upon declarations made before September 27, 1906."

Muenchow, the collection of both the regular taxes and income taxes is progressing at a rapid rate and the sums so far received are about equal to that of last year. ower Club: The next dance of the series will be held Wednesday evening, January 23rd, at East Side Odd Fellows' hall.

AABEY IS RELEASED UNDER A HEAVY BAIL

Federal Court Commissioner Places
Bail at $2500—Carlson is Still Held in Custody.

Oscar Aabe, who was arrested Saturday evening at the C. M. & St. P. railroad station while in the act of giving liquor to two national army men from Camp Grant, was arraigned before United States Court Commissioner Stanley D. Tallman late yesterday afternoon and had his case bound over to the United States court in Madison. Until the time of his trial he was placed under $2500 bail which was given by his father.

Aabe will be confronted by a serious charge when brought to trial in Madison as the federal laws governing the giving of liquor to soldiers are very stringent. Aabe, in a statement this morning, said that the two soldiers asked him to get the liquor for them and that he complied with their demands because of their forcible pleas. He admits all the facts in the case and has signed a statement to the effect that he was guilty of the offense.

Carlson in Custody.
The disposition of the case of Roy Carlson, who is being held as a deserter from the United States army for failure to appear at his local board to all out his questionnaire, is still in doubt until definite information can be secured from the district in which he is held. Carlson has a registration card and No. 153 showing that he is registered in South Beloit.

The U. S. Marshall from Madison was in Janesville yesterday and told the authorities here to hold Carlson until his status with his local board could be established. The punishment which Carlson will receive will depend on the action of the board who may allow him to all out his questionnaire or they may induct him immediately into the service of the United States or sentence him to a long prison term. Carlson is being held by the police at the city hall.

WHY THE COST?

It must be worth something to somebody to have a vote taken on the change of the form of the municipal government from the actively shown by the "third" passers of the petition to bring it to an issue. Prices are said to range from five to ten cents a name. Meanwhile the question remains unanswered. Who is behind the demand for the change and what are their reasons? One would think it they were anything more than persons, or simply persons, they would be glad to avail themselves of the opportunity to come out in the open and state them. If good and consistent with merit to them, it will be easy enough to find signers, and it won't cost a cent a name, either. As it is, you find every ex-ward politician and personage who have felt that their dignity has been injured upon some pet scheme of theirs frustrated, talking most loudly for the proposed change. However, if enough signatures are obtained to bring it to a vote then the public may find out who are behind the move, and what pet scheme they are seeking to slip over on the unsuspecting public.

NO HESITATION.

"Franz Sigel, son of General Franz Sigel, a gallant soldier of the United States Civil war, has been made president of the Friends of German Democracy, an organization that has just issued an appeal to American citizens of German birth to join in its campaign for helping the United States to win the war. "I fought with Sigel," says the proud boast of the United States for decades after the surrender at Appomattox, and there has never been serious doubt that, were General Franz Sigel, General Carl Schurz, and others of the 48 revolutionaries and exiles who stood for the Union in '61, here to take part in the present campaign, they would be found battling against autocracy and militarism once more. The younger Franz Sigel is on the side which his father would have chosen without hesitation."

This quotes the Christian Science Monitor, and you right here at home there are a lot of citizens who do take Baker's word for it. "Why hurry," the war is three thousand miles away. A prep into some of these questionnaires, if persons were given, would reveal a strange story that would be well worth reading. However, they are on record now and in later years their bluff and bluster will count for naught. They are marked down. Yet many of those who escape the first call will be needed later if what we have of the war is true, and even million men are needed, but by that time the war department will have been re-constructed into some kind of order, and equipping a million men will be but child's play.

"GUM SHOE BILL."

Senator Stone of Missouri, one of the "wildcat seven," seeks to rehabilitate himself in the hearts of the democratic council by making a vicious and uncalled for attack upon Colonel Roosevelt and other republican leaders on the floor of the United States senate. It was a disgrace to the nation that such a speech was delivered, and does not make "Gum Shoe Bill" stand any higher in the estimation of the patriotic Americans than did his vote against war and against preparation. Many of the parents whose sons have died of pneumonia, or other camp life, can lay the blame where it belongs, upon the shoulders of the "Wildcat Seven." While many have differed with Colonel Roosevelt in the past, differ with him now. It is a pretty narrow-gauged citizen who will discount his patriotism or his work in behalf of this nation at this time. Refused permission to go to the fighting front himself, he is sent his sons, and he has sent his sons to the front in waiting for America to the fact we are at war. Then to cap the climax comes this cheap, partisan, clap-net orator from the "Show Me" state to wind up his career with a bitter personal attack. Pough, it makes one's mouth taste bad to think such men are down in Washington to make our laws.

WOMEN SPIES.

Germany may not believe much in rights for women, but Germany is perfectly willing to accept the devotion and sacrifices of its women spies. All accounts agree that lots of them are on the job. The motive is not always money. Social favors at home, and chance for advancement in rank or imperial notice, are bait enough. It is the duty of women spies to establish themselves in important cities, and create social relations with prominent people, particularly with influential men. As to how far they are to go, the government would not ask questions. After the war, it results had been achieved, the greater the audacity, even the shamelessness, the higher the honors to be assigned.

Fortunately American public life is pretty clean morally. In some countries these women would easily establish compromising relations with high men, and then would extract secrets by threats or revelations. Our politicians have their faults, but not many of them will be caught on this game.

In this country another type of woman spy is more dangerous. A lot of women of evil reputation are hanging around the army camps. If they can sell the soldier bad liquor and entrap him into vice, they will pervert the Kaiser's service. The communities near the army camps have a great responsibility to see that these nests are thoroughly cleaned out.

Women have done spy work in all wars. If they can accomplish nothing else, they can start false rumors and sow dissatisfaction. They will worm their way into American establishments where war work is being done by women. Anyone whose conduct is open to suspicion should be quietly and promptly reported to the police.

INCREASE OF CRIME.

Police officials report a large increase of crime since the United States entered the war. There have been fifteen bank burglaries in the middle west alone during sixty days. The crooks evidently think this is their particular time. They imagine that people are too taken up with the war that they can ply their little trade with less chance of molestation. Therein they are quite wrong. The war will not make people more lenient. It will arouse their anger against the criminals that take advantage of the present situation. Convicted crooks are likely to get longer sentences than usual.

The jobs referred to seem like the work of professionals. They are using the new acetylene gas processes, and go through almost anything, making holes through some steel walls through which a man can put his arm. Where police are watchful it should not be possible to put over a bank robbery. It is a great safeguard if bank vaults can be so arranged as to be visible all night with lights kept burning. The means of entrance to vaults should be carefully watched in these times. It is no time to temporize when robbers are caught, and the courts should give them the limit.

It seems strange that men who have the force, originality, and daring to put over a bank robbery will go into this dirty and hazardous business. They also have mechanical skill, and if they would put the same ability into honest work, they could make a good success in almost any technical line. But somehow the crooked streak has got into their brains. Probably they were perverted to run wild as boys. Their early attempts at crime were passed over lightly, and they were never made to feel what they were leading up to.

The socialists of this country look with envy on the glorious success of their brethren in Russia, where they have succeeded in destroying the military power, the credit, and the means of subsistence of the country.

Germany can continue the war indefinitely in spite of food shortage, as the people of wealth can get food even if some kinds of meat are seventy dollars a pound, and the poor people don't have to eat.

After the war, will the women who have been running big relief enterprises and business concerns be willing to go back to the old life of waiting and swapping small talk at five o'clock teas?

The same people who complain so bitterly because the army isn't equipped, will growl because their train is held up a few minutes to allow war supplies to move along.

The German editors are freely allowed to get out a newspaper every day provided they don't print anything that hasn't been fixed up by the government.

After complaining bitterly because woolen clothes cost so high, many people proceed to buy a mongrel pup that will grow up to be a mongrel killing dog.

The German government is ready to give solemn assurances to keep the peace until it gets ready to go to war again.

Some people seem to think that the sugar question is solved when it is fed out to the people in the form of candy at one dollar a pound.

It is lucky that some of these racist women don't live over in Belgium where they would have to dig trenches for their German conquerors.

The young people on the parlor sofa have shown no objection to turning the lights off early to save fuel.

The Germans execute suspects unless they can positively prove they are spies.

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Gubet.
FLY A CLEAN FLAG.
This I heard the Old Flag say
As I passed it yesterday
O that I were your friendly hands
Plastered me on slender strands
And with patriotic love
Placed me here to wave above
You and yours, I heard you say
O that I were departed day
Flag of all that's true and fine
Wave above this house of mine;
Be the first at break of day
And the last at night to say
To the world, this word of cheer:
Loyal abideth here.

"Here on every wind that's blown
Per your point I have
Rain and snow have battered me;
Storms at night have battered me;
Dust of street and chimney stack
Day by day have stained me black.
And you watched me passing there,
Wondering how much you care.
Have you noticed that your flag,
Is today a wind-blown rag?
Has your love so careless grown
By the long neglect your flag
And you never raised your eye
To the symbol that you fly?"

Flag on which no stain has been,
Tis my sin that you're unclear.
Then I answered in my shame,
On my head must lie the blame.
Now with patriotic hands
I release you from your strands
And a spotless flag shall fly
To greet each passer by.
Nevermore shall Flag of mine
Be a sad and sorry sign
Telling all who look above
Neglect the thing I love.
Fly my Flag of faith shall be Fit for every eye to see.

It seems to be taking the people a long time to get excited over the new price of Bibles which has been announced every month since the war started.

BAVARIANS DECORATE OUTSIDE OF HOUSES WITH HOLY PICTURES AS WAR PROTECTION.

Top—A Bavarian peasant's home on outside of which religious pictures have been posted. Below—A typical peasant girl on her way to church.

The frightfulness of the Germans could hardly be credited by one who could see some of the little peasant homes in Bavaria, that southernmost state of the German empire. In the country and in the villages one would think that Bavaria was one of the little countries against whom the Kaiser was launching his terrors.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

—NOT K. MOUTON

IN THE OLDEN DAYS.

(With apologies to Raymond Hitchcock.)
It was like this in the olden days,
When real coal was five a ton,
When butter was twenty cents a pound,
And buying grub was fun;
When ten-cent eggs were strictly fresh,
And were not from storage cold;
And pay check lasted a day or so
In the days of old.

The United States has notified the Santo Domingo army that he must sober up and go to work.

"These 'less' days established by Bro. Hoover are all right, but we would like to know who invented the idea of having seven heatless days each week."

It seems Kerensky was not married to a grand opera singer, after all. So that was not the reason he fled from Petrograd.

Chicago is in the throes of the annual titanic efforts of trying to support grand opera and the stockyards at the same time.

HARRY—MORE EFFICIENCY.
What has become of the old-fashioned submarine menace?
What has happened to that drive into Italy?

Why is that crushing blow on the western front?

Why do we not hear the cry: "On to Paris?"

Has British commerce been swept from the sea?

Why has not the British populace cried for peace?

Where is the Berlin-to-Bagdad rail way?

How have American troops been allowed to cross the ocean?

A NEEDED IMPROVEMENT.
Under the present arrangement there is much guessing in the cheap seats, not as to the persons on the stage but as to the persons in the theater boxes. In the model theater there should be uniformed announcers with megaphones to announce arrivals as follows:

Mrs. Van Twiller Van Tank, with one diamond tiara, $95,000; one diamond stomacher, $45,875.45; one pearl necklace, $235,000; nine rings, $17,937.50; one brooch, $26,685.85, given by Lady Bluff Jordan, shoes by Shoemaker & Co., longnettes by Biffany, coat of arms by the Excelsior Clock and Suit Company, dentistry by Pullen & Payne, small talk and recitation by the "Smart Set" and "Vanity Fair."

We don't care for the Kaiser. We don't like his suits or his helmets or his spurs or his mustache or his manners, but we don't think it will help us.

Around The State

One Year Term.

Superior, Wis., Jan. 22.—Henry Shuler has been given a year's term in the penitentiary on the charge of counterfeiting, and his wife, Mahol, has received six months in the house of correction at Milwaukee on the same charge. The couple was arrested here some time ago but owing to the fact that both were victims of the drug habit and were in a serious condition they were not arraigned in court until recently. They are the first counterfeiters to be arrested in the state in some time.

Woman Missing.

Man Lives but Horse Dies.
Oskosh, Jan. 22.—Fearing that he would not survive an operation, a resident of this city, whose name has been withheld, shot his favorite horse because he did not want the animal to fall into unworthy hands after his own death. The man underwent the operation and is recovering, but now mourns the death of his horse.

Frozen Solid.

Beaver Dam, Jan. 22.—While even railroad trains have a habit of freezing up in extremely cold weather, it remained for a train here to set a new record in the way of freezing. The hose from the water tank leaked while the passenger train was standing in front of the depot. The leaky hose and a 20 below zero temperature formed a combination that kept the train hard and fast in front of the station until extra engines were called to pull it loose from the rails.

RISES TO HIGH POST IN THE NAVY

Rear Admiral Christian J. Peoples.

In recently being promoted from commander to rear admiral, Christian J. Peoples has enjoyed a distinction that falls to few of his brother admirals. He entered the navy in 1895 at $2 a day in the construction and repair department and his most recent assignment after conspicuous service has been as assistant to Paymaster General McGowan.

U. S. MARSHAL AGAIN URGES REGISTRATION OF ALL ALIEN ENEMIES

Madison, Wis., Jan. 21.

To the Editor: As you doubtless know from the press dispatches, the registration of all native-born citizens, residents or subjects of the German empire or of the German imperial government, being males of fourteen years of age or over, who are within the United States, and are not naturalized citizens. This registration will be made by the chief of police in all cities of five thousand population or over and in all other cities by the postmasters.

The registration will be made at 6:00 a. m. on February 4th, and continue each day between the hours of 6:00 a. m. and 6:00 p. m. until the close of the day on February 9th. All persons affected by the order are required to report to their respective registration officer during that time.

For further information, please apply to a questionnaire, which will be given to you by the registration officer. The penalty for failure to register is severe. Any person subject to registration who fails to do so will be subject to arrest and confinement during the remainder of the war, and I presume in several cases, deportation back to Germany.

Inquiry will be made for all those who avoid or try to evade the regulations.

My experience in registering aliens in the prohibited areas leads me to know that the number of such persons in the western district of Wisconsin is very largely underestimated.

A large number of people of German descent have been voting on their so-called first papers, for many years and many of them who have considered themselves citizens of the United States, are in fact not citizens. Some have voted, have failed to reveal that they are not citizens and for that reason have claimed citizenship.

There is no intention on the part of the government to disturb any person who meets these requirements if he fulfills the obligation of the registry in good faith. Any German of foreign birth is not a citizen unless he has received his full second papers.

For their own protection they should be urged to meet all of the requirements promptly, faithfully and fully.

As this work is important in the extreme, it is the duty of every American citizen to assist the registry in every way possible.

Typical Moujik of Old School.

The attitude of the peasant has a great deal to do with the future of Russia. The peasant in the picture is typical of the moujik of the old school—unlettered, ignorant of anything but agriculture and usually very poor. They comprise the majority of the population and, in their ignorance, are very conservative.

GRANTED DIVORCE ON DESERTION CHARGES

Edythe Diddleboch Given Divorce Decree from Harry by Judge Grimm in Circuit Court.

One Other Divorce Granted.

Judge Grimm of the circuit court yesterday afternoon granted a divorce to Edythe Diddleboch from her husband, Harry Diddleboch.

The evidence of desertion presented by the plaintiff proved sufficient to convince the judge that her claims were just, and she was awarded the decree.

The case was originally scheduled in the Green county court, but Mrs. Diddleboch wanted the case hurried up, so it was heard in the local court.

Clara E. Brandall, of Beloit, was granted a divorce from Nick for cruel and inhuman treatment. There was no appearance on the part of the defendant, and Clara proved to the judge that he had abused her in various ways.

Sam Fiedler was granted a writ of habeas corpus and will be given the custody of his child, Leona Fiedler. D. M. Bond was granted a discharge of a mortgage from John P. Stoddard.

Harry Diddleboch, the defendant in the action, will be remembered for his meteoric career as erstwhile editor of the new defunct Janesville Recorder, and his activity in city politics at the time of the recall election and the paper he sought to establish. He is supposed to have originally hailed from Philadelphia, and rumor had it he worked in jail before coming to Janesville. He left Janesville suddenly, and according to the testimony of his former wife she does not know his whereabouts.

What action will be taken against John Knight, alleged bootlegger, who was arrested Sunday, is still a question. Since the time of the arrest Knight has been reposing in the city hall lockup waiting for some steps to be taken by either the city attorney or the district attorney.

Knight was arrested for selling a half-pint bottle of whiskey, a marked dollar bill which was given in payment for the whiskey leading to a question. Since the time of the arrest Knight has been reposing in the city hall lockup waiting for some steps to be taken by either the city attorney or the district attorney.

Knight will not admit any of the facts in the case and claims that he was only planning to give the purchaser of the whiskey a drink. The fact that the liquor was alleged to have been sold on Sunday will not alter the case, because the Sunday selling law only applies to licensed places.

John Knight is Being Held by Police Officials Awaiting the Swearing Out of a Warrant.

Sales of the Friendly Forest

XXXVII.

Well, as I meant to tell you in last night's story, only I didn't have any more room, when Billy Bunny hopped out of the hen house he saw that the little rooster had made a mistake. It wasn't Bobber Hawk at all who had made them all hide, for there sat as the big, kind American eagle, talking to the Watercock, and as soon as he saw the little rabbit he said, "Hello, Billy Bunny. I'll take you to a place where you can find lots of Easter eggs."

"Can you?" cried the little rabbit, hopping up and down, he was so happy. Then the big, kind American eagle took Billy Bunny on his back and flew away with him until they came to the sky blue pink country, where there were all sorts of hens. There was a green hen and a yellow hen; but the rooster was sky blue. They all sang a different song. The yellow hen said, "Hopped-dood-doo!" and the green hen said, "Chick-a-chick-a-chick!" but the pink hen only said, "Tea la la!" for she was very lazy.

Now the green hen laid red eggs and the yellow hen blue ones, but the pink hen never laid any. For she was a very busy hen, and that was the reason why the big, kind American eagle had brought Billy Bunny to the sky blue pink country. You see, he thought if a little bunny lay an egg she couldn't refuse, and this would make the sky blue rooster very happy and he would give Billy Bunny some Easter eggs, which would make the little rabbit very happy, too. So Billy Bunny said to the pink hen:

"Little Pink Hen, won't you lay a pretty egg for Easter day? I've hunted everywhere, I think, to find a little egg that's pink."

Then the sky blue rooster said to her:

"Little Pink Hen, I humbly beg, that you will lay a pinkie egg."

And would you believe it, she went straight to her nest and laid thirteen beautiful little pink eggs! The sky blue rooster was so tickled that he sang "The Star Spangled Banner" all through three times standing on the tip of his longest tail feather. And after that he gave the little rabbit a basketful of pretty colored eggs. Then the American eagle took little Billy Bunny on his back and started off for the old bird patch, and the little pink hen was awfully sorry to have him go, for it was the first time she had ever seen a little rabbit.

Well, it didn't take very long to get home, and wasn't Mrs. Bunny proud when she saw Billy Bunny on the eagle's back. You see he had three eggs in his wings and a big necktie of red, white and blue around his neck. And if I keep my typewriter from singing "The Star Spangled Banner" until tomorrow night I'll tell you another story about Billy Bunny.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

Tom Moore says that among other pleasant things in working for the movies he might mention that he has not once been stranded penniless in a strange town since leaving the legit. Some years ago in his early days Moore did the low comedy in the "ten-twenty-three" and his first five parts in work of the sort landed him stranded in five different cities.

Moore has had success in the movies since the first, not only because of his personal charm but because of his vigor and the admirable restraint he always employs. Playing opposite Alice Joyce in "Kalen" places he took the eye of film fans with his ease of manner and unaffected manliness. Though he has played in many important productions there are none in which he has pleased more than in "Dollars and Cents," with Ethel Clayton. Albert Payson Terhune, the author of the piece, spoke warmly of Moore's visualization of the difficult part he essayed.

Tom Moore, with his two brothers, Owen and Mat, have been called the "lucky Moores," perhaps because they have all been successful in pleasing the fans of the film. It has been disputed as to which of the three brothers possesses in the greatest degree the qualities shared by all.

Claire Kimball Young announces that Leon Trotzky, now a leader of the Bolsheviks, appeared with her in pictures while he was living in New York. That was in the movie named "My Official Wife."

The producers of her pictures are crying, "Woe is me! Alas! And lackaday!"

That's because they were unable to read the future and give a conspicuous role to the said Trotzky. The importance of the role he played may be judged by the fact that his pay on the days he worked was $5.

Mary Roberts Rinehart will furnish the first scenario for Doris Kenyon when that popular young actress appears as a star under the De Luxe Feature Company's management. "The Street of Seven Stars" has been selected for the initial production.

and work is well under way. Because of the illness of W. J. Lamb, a member of the cast, Alice Brady's production of "The Knife" has been delayed. The scenario is from the drama of the same title written by Eugene Walter.

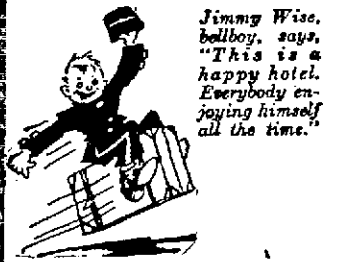

Eugene Pallotte, noted for his juvenile leads and heavies, is now a full fledged aviator. He enlisted with a lieutenant's commission.

Enid Markey has just returned from a week in the desert, where she appeared opposite Tom Mix in a Fox western drama.

Gwendolyn Pates, formerly of Pathe is now in vaudeville, appearing in "Solitaire." She is supported by her husband, William Grew.

Plenty of thrills and lots of speed is to be had in skate-sailing, the new outdoor sport that is now popular wherever there is ice enough to give the skater a long course. The Shrewsbury river in New Jersey is where skate sailing is flourishing at present and skate-sailors there are many. Quite a little skill in handling the sail is an important item.

Milton News

Milton-Milton Jct. Game.

Milton, Jan. 22.—Milton high school defeated the team from Milton Junction in their annual game last Saturday night by the score of ten to twelve. The game was by far the closest and most interesting of the year, and by many it has been said to be the best ever played on the floor. The two teams have always been evenly matched, and interest runs high when they are matched against each other. The teams took the floor Saturday night determined to win by whatever means they could. Play went along for at least fifteen minutes before Coon, the Junction forward, dropped in a field basket. Babcock immediately followed with a goal for Milton, and a free throw. The Junction ended the scoring for that half, the count being three to two. Play was started in the second period with a quick basket for Milton, which put them in the lead for the first time. The game continued evenly until the end of the half. With the score nine to eight in Milton's favor, a double foul and the timekeeper's whistle were called. The same time Milton missed their shot, but Coon put the ball through the basket, thus tying the score and making a five-minute playing necessary. This period was a mere trifle, as a fight each team scoring a free basket, and Milton caging a field goal, winning the game.

The lineup follows:

Coon, Milton; Baker, Junction; Hurley, Baker; Shumway, Fox; Monague, c; Babcock, Junction; Babcock, Junction; Lippincott, Junction; Davis, Junction; Van Horn, Junction; The Burdick Cabinet factory and the Davis Printing Co., are closed for the five-day period prescribed by the fuel commissioner. On Monday all business places closed except stores that sold foodstuffs, and their sales were restricted to food. The bank and drug store were open to the public.

Rev. D. B. Coon of Battle Creek, Mich., is supplying the pulpit of the S. D. B. church during the absence of Pastor Randolph at the Saturday morning service. Rev. Mr. Catchpole of Janesville, presented the claims of his children's society.

Sergeant Perry Gifford of the Officers' Training Camp at Camp Grant, spent the week-end at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Waterman of Newell, Ia., visited Milton relatives Saturday and Sunday. They left Monday for St. Petersburg, Florida.

Whitewater News

Whitewater, Jan. 22.—Report comes from the south of the first death to occur in Co. K of this city. James Pellington of Sharon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Pellington, died at a camp in North Carolina, where he was while en route from Waco to New York. The cause of death was neuritis of the heart. Pellington enlisted in Co. C last July when the county was being covered by officers to make the company's quota. He came to this city with the rest of the recruits, who were drilled here two weeks. On Aug. 2 the company left for Camp Douglas and in September went to Waco. This is practically the first authentic word that Company K was moving east.

Clon Kistenburg spent Sunday in Milwaukee.

Charles Kohlmeier came home from Delavan last evening, where he has been working in the Bradley mills. A leg timber fell on his left leg, breaking several bones, and he will be laid up for several weeks.

Donald Vance returned to Milwaukee last evening after spending several days at home.

Chas. Hart made a short visit here Monday evening. He has been working at the Tilden farm at Delavan.

Ivan Kyle spent Sunday with friends in Janesville.

Arnold Bierfeld returned to Armour Institute, Chicago, last evening, after spending several days with his parents here.

Monday was observed as fuelless day, all business houses being closed, except the grocery stores, markets, drug stores, banks, and restaurants. Everyone seemed to comply with the order and so far no complaints were made. It was hard to find a loafing place as no cards were played or billiards or pool. In most places no cigars or cigarettes were sold.

The Wisconsin motor works in Milwaukee were ordered to report there on Monday as that plant resumed labor on the war orders.

Mrs. Lillie Perry has been spending a few days at Beloit.

Francis Conety spent Monday in Milwaukee.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Graham spent Sunday and Monday in North Prairie. Goodwin Watson is at Appleton today attending Lawrence university. He has been teaching at Madison but the schools there are closed on account of lack of fuel.

LA PORTE COMPANY IN PLEASING BILL

Clever Stock Company Is Winning Friends at Myers Theatre This Week.

The performance, "The Girl and the Sinner," given last evening at the Myers Theatre by the Clever Stock Company was even better than that given on Sunday. If the two first plays are indications of what stock fans may expect for the rest of the week the company has indeed a very good repertoire.

Between acts some unusually good vaudeville specialties were given by members of the cast.

Owing to the Fuel Administration's order the theatre will be dark this evening, but will be open the rest of the week.

"More than a year ago I took a course of Mayer's Wonderful Remedy for all stones, severe colds and aches, rheumatism and have been entirely cured. I have recommended it to many other stomach sufferers, as I felt it was my duty to tell them just how much good it has done me." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and clears the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Neuralgia Headaches

After shopping or after a hard day are quickly relieved with Sloan's Liniment. So easy to apply, no rubbing, and so promptly effective. Clearer and more convenient than many plaster and ointments. It does not stain the skin, or clog the pores. Every home should have a bottle handy for sprains, strains, lame back, rheumatic pains and all sore muscles and joints. Generous sized bottles at all druggists.

Try Making Your Own Cough Remedy

You can save about 75¢ and have a better remedy than the ready-made kind. Easy to make.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "cough-cure" remedy, you would hardly have in them all the curative power that lies in this simple "home-made" cough syrup which takes only a few minutes to prepare. Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex (60 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 65 cents and gives you a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Tastes pleasant and never spoils. This Pinex and sugar syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and breaks the sore, irritated membranes that line the throat, chest and bronchial tubes, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs. To avoid disappointment, be sure to ask your druggist for 60¢ ounces of Pinex with full directions, and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Pinex Co., St. Wayne, Ind.

Long Live The King

"Once, some years ago, sire, I came to you with a plan. The Princess Hedwig was a child then, and his late royal highness was still with us. For that, and for other reasons, your majesty refused to listen. But things have changed. Between us and revolution there stand only the frail life of a boy and an army none too large, and already discontented, and the offspring of a discontented anarchy." The king smiled. But Mettlich had taken his courage in his hands, and went on. "Their neighbor and hereditary foe was Karina. Could they any longer afford the enmity of Karina? One cause of discontent was the expense of the army, and of the fortifications along the Karanian border. If Karina were allied with them, there would be no need of so great an army. They had the mineral wealth, and Karina the seaports. The old dream of the empire, of a railway to the sea, would be realized."

He pleaded well. The idea was not new. To place the little King Otto IX on the throne and keep him there in the face of opposition would require support from outside. Karina would furnish this support. For a price. The price was the Princess Hedwig.

"That is my plea, sire," Mettlich dashed. "Karl of Karina is anxious to marry, and looks this way. To ally discontent and growing insurrection, to insure the boy's safety and his throne, to beat our swords into ploughshares—here he caught the king's sword, and added—"to a certain extent, and to make us a commercial as well as a military nation, surely, sire, it gains much for us, and loses us nothing."

"But our independence!" said the king sourly. However, he did not dismiss the idea. The fright of the afternoon had weakened him, and if Mettlich were right the royalist party would need outside help to maintain the throne. "Karina," he said. "The lion and the lamb with the lamb inside the lion. And in the meantime the boy—" "He should be watched always."

"He has Lussia," Count Lussin was the crown prince's aide-de-camp. "He needs a man, sire," observed the chancellor rather tartly. "This youngster he is so fond of, young Larisch, would he please you better?" he asked, with ironic deference.

"A good boy, sire. You may recall that his mother—" He stopped. Perhaps the old king's memory was good. Perhaps there was a change in Mettlich's voice.

"A good boy?" "None better, sire. He is devoted to his royal highness. He is outside now."

"Bring him in. I'll have a look at him." Nikky, summoned by a chamberlain, stopped inside the doorway and bowed deeply.

"Come here," said the king. He advanced. "How old are you?" "Twenty-three, sire."

"In the grenadiers, I believe." Nikky bowed. "Like horses?" said the king suddenly.

crown prince. It was an elegant little speech. Unluckily, the occasion for it had gone by two hours. "I—I am grateful, sire," was what he said. "I—" And there he stopped and choked up. It was rather dreadful.

"I depend on you, Captain Larisch," said the king gravely, and nodded his head to a gesture of dismissal. Nikky backed toward the door, struck a hussack, all but went down, bowed again at the door, and fled.

"A fine lad," said General Mettlich. "But no talker."

"All the better," replied his majesty. "I am tired of men who talk well. And"—he smiled faintly—"I am tired of you. You talk too well. You make me think. I don't want to think. I've been thinking all my life. It is time to rest, my friend."

CHAPTER III.

At the Riding School. His royal highness the Crown Prince Ferdinand William Otto was in disgrace.

He had risen at six, bathed, dressed, and gone to mass, in disgrace. He had breakfasted at seven-thirty on fruit, cereal, and one egg, in disgrace. He had gone to his study at eight o'clock for lessons, in disgrace. A long line of tutors came and went all morning, and he worked diligently, but he was still in disgrace. All morning long and in the intervals between tutors he had tried to catch Miss Braithwaite's eye.

Except for the most ordinary civilities, she had refused to look in his direction. The French tutor was standing near a photograph of Hedwig, and pretending not to look at it. Prince Ferdinand William Otto had a suspicion that the tutor was in love with Hedwig.

Prince Ferdinand William Otto did not like the French tutor. He also found the sun unsettling. Besides, he hated verbs. Nouns were different. One could do something with nouns, although even they had a way of having genders. Into his head popped a recollection of a delightful pastime of the day before—nothing more nor less than flipping paper wads at the guard on the scenic railway as the car went past him.

Prince Ferdinand William Otto tore off the corner of a piece of paper, chewed it deliberately, rounded and hardened it with his royal fingers, and aimed it at M. Puaux. It struck him in the eye.

Instantly things happened. M. Puaux yelled, and clapped a hand to his eye. Miss Braithwaite rose. His royal highness wrote a rather shaky French verb, with the wrong termination. And on to this scene came Nikky for the riding lesson.

Nikky surveyed the scene. He had, of course, bowed inside the door, and all that sort of thing. But Nikky was an informal person, and was quite apt to bow deeply before his future sovereign, and then poke him in the chest.

"Well," said Nikky. "Good morning," said Prince Ferdinand William Otto, in a small and nervous voice.

"Nothing wrong, is there?" demanded Nikky. M. Puaux got out his handkerchief and said nothing violently. "Otto!" said Miss Braithwaite. "What did you do?"

"Nothing," He looked about. He was quite convinced that M. Puaux was what Bobby would have termed a poor sport, and had not played the game fairly. The guard at the railway, he felt, would not have yelled and went. "Oh, well, I threw a piece of paper. That's all. I didn't think it would hurt."

Miss Braithwaite rose and glanced at the carpet. But Nikky was quick. Quick and understanding. He put his shiny foot over the paper wad.

"Paper!" said Miss Braithwaite. "Why did you throw paper? And at M. Puaux?"

"I—just felt like throwing something," explained his royal highness. "I guess it's the sun, or something." Nikky dropped his glove, and miraculously, when he had picked it up the little wad was gone.

"For throwing paper, five marks," said Miss Braithwaite, and put it down in the book she carried in her pocket. It was rather an awful book. On Saturdays the king looked it over, and demanded explanations: "For untidy nails, five marks! A gentleman never has untidy nails. Otto, for objecting to winter fannels, two marks. Humph! For pocketing sugar from the tea tray, ten marks! Humph! For lack of attention during religious instruction, five marks. Ten off for the sugar, and only five for inattention to religious instruction! What have you to say, sir?"

Prince Ferdinand William Otto looked at Nikky and Nikky looked back. Then Ferdinand William Otto's left eyelid drooped. Nikky was astounded. How was he to know the treasury of 'strange' things that the crown prince had tapped the previous afternoon? But, after a glance around the room, Nikky's eyelid drooped also. He said the paper wad into his pocket.

"I am afraid his royal highness has hurt your eye, M. Puaux," said Miss Braithwaite.

"Not at all," said the unhappy young man, testing the eye to discover if he could see through it. "I am sure his royal highness meant no harm." M. Puaux went out, with his handkerchief to his eye.

While Oskar, his valet, put the crown prince into riding clothes, Nikky and Miss Braithwaite had a talk. It began by Nikky's stating that she was likely to see him a great deal now, and he hoped she would not find him in the way. He had been made aide-de-camp to the crown prince, vice Count Lussin, who had resigned on account of illness, having been roused at day-break out of a healthy sleep to do it.

Not that Nikky said just that. What he really observed was: "The king sent for me last night. Miss Braithwaite, and—asked me to hang around."

Thus Nikky, of his sacred trust! None the less sacred to him, either, that he spoke lightly. He glanced up at the crossed swords, and his eyes were hard.

And Miss Braithwaite knew. She reached over and put a hand on his arm. "You and I," she said. "Out of all the people in this palace, only you and I! The archduchess hates him. I see it in her eyes. She can never forgive him for keeping the throne from Hedwig. The very guards down below, the sentries at our doors, how do we know they are loyal?"

"The people love him," said Nikky doggedly. "The people! Sheep. I do not trust the people. I do not trust any one. I watch, but what can I do? The very food we eat—"

"He is coming," said Nikky softly. And fell to whispering under his breath.

Together Nikky and Prince Ferdinand William Otto went out and down the great marble staircase. Sentries saluted. Two finkies in scarlet and gold threw open the doors. A stray dog that had wandered into the courtyard watched them gravely.

Dinner Stories

"What is the matter?" asked the mother of a six-year-old girl as she came home almost in tears after her first day in school.

"I don't like the teacher," said the little one.

"Why, you hardly know her. What has she done to you?"

"When I went in she said: 'You sit here for the present,' and she never brings it."

A southerner in one of the cantonments below the Mason and Dixon line called up for examination was asked:

"What is your nearest living relative?"

"What you mean 'relative,' mister?" returned the recruit.

"Oh, I mean your nearest living kinsfolk."

"Wal, that's my aunt you're talking 'bout."

Several other questions were answered satisfactorily when there came:

"In case of death or accident, whom shall he be notified?"

"My mother," immediately from the selectman.

"But you told me just a few minutes ago that your aunt was the nearest living relative that you have, objected the officer."

"You asked me who my nearest living kin was, didn't you? Wal, that's Aunt Liz—she lives just two miles from where I been livin'; mother lives five."

The victim of the far and feather party couldn't realize what was going to happen to him.

"What are you going to do with me?" he asked chattering with fear and the cold.

"We're going to camouflage you," answered the man with the feather bag. "In other words we're going to make you look like a rooster so you can do some more crowing for the Kaiser."

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

It Makes Fighter Wonder If It's All Worth While When Mailman Brings Him Nothing

By Major Donald M. McRae.

Just before Christmas we began to receive boxes from home. There is no feeling in the world like that experienced when you open a box from home when you are just out of the line. It links you with your people and lets you feel that even if you are so far away, you are not quite forgotten.

It is a mighty sad feeling a man has when he goes for his mail after a long, long wait, and then finds none. It makes a man wonder if it is quite worth while to go through all the hell for people who are not going to write to him. I have seen men turn away from the mail carrier with a sick, discouraged look that not even a wound can bring.

By a letter, the boys do not write as often as they ought, they have a good excuse, at least while there is no excuse for the people sitting comfortably at home. What if they are up to a theater party or a dance to write a nice, breezy letter? It is for a man who has given up every comfort and pleasure that he has been brought up to consider as his right.

We were very lucky in our mess, for every man got presents from home. I shall never forget my pleasure when my servant came up with a big wooden box for me and said there were two more at the post office. I found inside all kinds of homelike things to eat, and besides, my little sister had had the happy inspiration to put in a lot of Christmas decorations.

There were long ropes of imitation holly, big red paper bells, and other things like that. Venturing to say that when one mess was finally decorated it excited anything else of the front for a real holiday appearance. I found great enjoyment in watching men's faces light up as they came in.

FIGHTING MEN ARE NOT HARD TO PLEASE

When at last the big day arrived everyone was feeling in a festive mood and on the lookout for a good time. We fighting men are not hard to please or amuse. We have been with the few amusements available we had a party that lifted the heavy strain and permitted us to be happy, carefree, and to enjoy ourselves.

Again, breakfast until about five o'clock a steady stream of officers moved from one mess to another, all laughing and joking. The men were just as happy as the officers. In my mess things were especially gay. Every man in the outfit could find some special talent. Tommy, our president, could play an accordion better than anyone else I have ever seen. He knew an unlimited number of pieces of music, and no matter what was asked for, he was ready to oblige. There were also a few who could play a mandolin, and play anything with Tommy's lead. "Horns" could clock dance, rattle the bones, and do the most comical Russian dance I ever saw.

FRENCH ARTILLERY CAUSES HEAVY LOSSES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

French Front, Jan. 21.—Gen. Ludendorff, regarded by the German allies as the master mind of the German army, pays an unintentional compliment to the accuracy of French artillery by a memorandum issued to the troops on Oct. 4, which has just been made available to the correspondent of the Associated Press.

In this document he admitted that the French gunners by their counter-battery fire destroyed in the course of a month in one German army alone, eighty-three German field guns and seventy-two heavy cannon, and seriously damaged and sent out of action also 23 field guns, 213 heavy cannon, as well as ninety-one field guns and fifty-nine heavy cannon slightly injured but capable of being repaired and used again in short time.

To these imposing figures of artillery losses caused by the French gunners the same German army in the same period of time had the mortification of adding an almost equally large number of losses brought about by the wearing out or bursting of guns. In this way seventy-three field guns were destroyed, 163 heavy cannon were seriously damaged and 177 field guns and ninety-one heavy guns slightly disabled.

The memorandum was issued to the German army by Gen. Ludendorff, because his artillery officers had argued repeatedly in favor of making counter-battery work secondary to attacks on infantry and communications. They asserted the French artillery directed their guns more generally against German infantry than against the artillery batteries. The figures collected by the German general demonstrate the fallacy of this argument and show the French determination to prevent the German guns, as far as possible, from being used against the French infantry and lines of communication and supply, and that they do this successfully.

Gen. Ludendorff, in concluding his memorandum, points out that by counter-battery work not only is the enemy's artillery destroyed or put out of action, but the opponent is forced to a considerable extent to turn his attention away from the doing of the enemy's infantry which is thus able to maneuver with greater ease.

Peter Velder accompanied the remains of his sister, Mrs. Mills, who died in Watertown, to Cincinnati last week.

The local Red Cross received a bundle of yarn Saturday and same can be procured of Mrs. Elmer on Tuesday. Mrs. Krieger is recovering from a sick spell.

"We piled into a motor bus and sped towards the lines."

Our first Christmas dinner was a comedian of no mean order and could recite or sing in a way that never failed to bring a laugh. It was the same with the rest, and we always went around together as a sort of theatrical company. When we walked into a mess, there was something doing from that time on.

FINE CHRISTMAS DINNER THANKS TO MONTREAL

At midday the enlisted men had a first-class Christmas dinner. The city of Montreal had sent out great cases of good things, and a friend of the battalion sent over enough fine food, wine, and beer to last for a long time. Besides, the army heads arranged for a double issue of rum, which was enough to give a man a fine time all alone in the middle of a desert.

It might appear that there was too much drinking, but it should be remembered that these men had been under an awful strain for a long time, and had had no let-up since the beginning of the Somme campaign. Their nerves were tense and ready to break, and it was absolutely essential to relieve their condition. After a few glasses of rum, the men came out of the trenches with a hard, drawn look about the faces and eyes that must be removed or the men will break.

At six-thirty Christmas night the officers had a big Christmas banquet at the Cafe Sur Nicolette. Besides the battalion officers we had numerous guests, one of whom was our general. We had speeches and singing, and the orchestra from our mess had to perform again.

Immediately after Christmas our drafts from England began to come, a couple of hundred men at a time, and then we learned that we were to do a great deal of work before we returned to the line. For the first three weeks the battalion was at drill all day long.

OUR EVENINGS NEVER FOUND US WITHOUT AMUSEMENT

On New Year day we had a holiday, with a general repetition of the Christmas day celebration.

Our evenings generally brought us something to do in the way of amusement. There wasn't a show given by the Barn Owls, a military theatrical troupe, there was a movie show at the Y. M. C. A., or a dance at some billet.

About January 11 some of the officers were ordered to go up to the line to look over the new frontage we were going in a few days. We piled into a motor bus and after a long ride, just back of our line, we arrived at Bully Grenay, which was around all day and making sketches.

Just a week later, our battalion formed in the main street of Arras and amid the cheers of the French and the groans of the German soldiers moved off to join the remainder of the brigade a few miles away. We went away feeling like new men, and were ready to take up again the old familiar work of "smashing the bulge."

Some Fish Catch.

Menominee, Wis., Jan. 21.—One of the largest catches on record with a pound net was made here recently by Ray Shore fisherman. In a single lift with a small net, measuring not more than five feet each way, he brought in a total of 370 for the day's work. The net was again cast and another catch of 1408 pounds was made.

Catholics to Conserve Coal.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 21.—Archbishop Messner, in furtherance of coal conservation, is preparing a letter to the Catholic clergy of the archdiocese, permitting them to abolish afternoon and evening services during the period of the coal crisis. It is probable that the letter will reach the clergy in time to be read on Sunday.

As a war emergency measure, St. Mary's Episcopal church will hold all services, until further notice, in the guild hall of the parish house, foregoing all use of both the church and lady chapel, and thereby saving a large quantity of coal.

DON'T FUSS WITH MUSTARD PLASTERS!

Musterole Works Without the Blister—Easier, Quicker

There's no sense in mixing a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can easily relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole.

Musterole is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients combined in the form of a special white ointment. It takes the place of mustard plasters, and will not blister. Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bites, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

LABOR PARTY WILL DISCUSS PROSPECTS FOR GAINING PEACE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Jan. 22.—Demands for the calling of an immediate or early conference of representatives of labor from all countries to discuss peace will be among the most important of the resolutions to be submitted to the conference of the British Labor Party to be held at Nottingham tomorrow and on the two days following. Three resolutions requesting such action have been prepared for submission to the conference by the independent Labor party, the Socialist party and the Glasgow Trades Council.

Various phases of the peace question apparently will be dominant in the discussions. Declaration that the time has arrived for peace negotiation is made in the resolutions to be submitted by the labor organizations of Bristol, Norwich, Leicester and York. A demand that labor be permitted representation in the eventual peace conference of the belligerent powers, or that an international labor conference be held simultaneously with the peace congress, is set forth by labor bodies of Great Yarmouth and Bristol.

Withdrawal of all labor members from ministerial offices under the present government is demanded in eight resolutions prepared by the British Socialist party or by labor bodies on the ground that continuance of labor members in the service of a government which "permits exploitation of the people by the capitalist class" is contrary to labor interests and a violation of the party constitution.

One such resolution from East Ham bases its demands on "the continual bare-faced robbery of the people by the food pirates," and suggests that laborers who refuse to resign, should be expelled from the party. "Capitalist food thieves" are strongly denounced, and the government is urged to handle the food problem as an emergency measure, and secure quality of sacrifice. There is likely to be a long and bitter discussion on this issue. A year ago the conference reaffirmed, by an overwhelming majority, approval of the retention of labor by labor ministers.

Financial proposals have been submitted by more than a dozen societies. They include demands for a substantial levy on capital, a drastic increase of the income tax, a raising of the exemption limit to 180 or 200 pounds, and the compulsory application of the "sinking fund" principle to land and capital, making it the property of the nation.

A scheme for the reorganization of the Labor party is to be submitted to the conference by the executive committee. It is said to represent an advance in the political mobilization of the labor forces.

The important new-comers among the resolutions are: An amendment of the law of libel for the protection of labor bodies against slanderous literature and speakers; a declaration in favor of home rule in India; and the statement that the time has come for the teaching of an international language to enable workers of the world to understand one another without need of an interpreter.

Appleton, Wis., Jan. 21.—Due to the closing down of the manufacturing establishments of this city, the Congregational church at its annual meeting last night unanimously adopted a resolution asking that all saloons in the city be closed during the time the manufacturing plants are closed. The resolution was sent to the Baptist, Presbyterian and Methodist churches and was unanimously passed by each of these churches. It was then sent by telegraph to Magnus Swenson, state food administrator, W. H. Fitzgerald, state fuel administrator, National Fuel Administrator Garfield and several newspapers.

DRAFTED MEN SHOW LOYAL WAR SPIRIT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 22.—The spirit which moved a sailor of the torpedoed American destroyer, Job Jones, to shoot to other sailors who were struggling with him in the sea, "Oh, boy! Where do we go from here?" is paralleled in instances among Kentucky drafted men.

Ruby W. Franklin, a school teacher of Madisonville, turned in a questionnaire of sixteen pages with a general answer of nine words. "I want no exemption. Tell Pershing I'll be there," he wrote across the face of the document.

Henry Dehaven Moorman of Hardinsburg, commonwealth attorney of Breckenridge county, indicated his attitude when he said he "didn't want to be an officer." Anxiety to enter the army led him to Washington, where he enlisted the services of Senator Ollie James to expedite his acceptance in order that he might "get into the thickest of the fight in France" at the earliest moment. Senator James presented him to Adjutant General McCain, to whom the Kentuckian made his simple request. Although well over the draft age, he passed the examination incident to enlistment promptly assigned to the Tenth Field Artillery and ordered to Camp Green, North Carolina for training.

These isolated cases, however, perhaps are overshadowed by the patriotic fervor in two Kentucky counties. In Larue the army exemption board recently announced that every man subject to the first draft had been found physically fit and that none had claimed exemption.

In Breathitt, the former home of feuds and bloodshed, there were no men of draft age subject to the first call, because they had volunteered the exemption board said.

Kentuckians and their brothers from Indiana and Southern Illinois to a total of more than 20,000, are in training at Camp Zachary Taylor, the national army cantonment on the edge of Louisville. Many of them bear the stamp of out-of-doors men from the mountains and it is common comment as they mingle with the crowds on the streets of Louisville on their two liberty days each week, that they look fit for service in the Titanic struggle just ahead of Uncle Sam's fighting men.

Wilson Approves $600,000 Fund To Aid Boy Scouts

"Duty of All Who Can to Give," Says President: Campaign Starts Next Month.

New York, Jan. 22.—President Wilson endorsed the nation-wide campaign for $600,000 which the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America will wage Feb. 8 to 12 in the following letter to Colin H. Livingstone, president of the National Council of Boy Scouts:

"My dear Mr. Livingstone: The fine efficiency of the Boy Scouts of America in serving the country must, of course, be maintained. The army and navy have drawn heavily upon its ranks for men who have gone forth gladly to make, if need be, the supreme sacrifice. Men are needed, as a consequence, as boy scout masters and leaders, more ever to build this efficient unit of the national service up to full strength.

"I hope that all who can make gifts to the organization or serve as scout masters will feel it their duty to organize the hundreds of thousands of boys who need the leadership and impulse of the boy scouts in order that the nation may have their intelligent service.

"Anything that is done or given to increase the war efficiency of the Boy Scouts of America will be a real contribution to the nation and will help win the war.

"Sincerely yours,
"WOODROW WILSON."
